For you will learn to see most acutely out of the corner of your eye to hear best with your inner ear for there are late signs and early signs for the patient's story will come to you like hunger, like thirst for you will know the answer like second nature, like first for the patient will live and you will try to understand for you will be amazed or the patient will not live
and you will try to understand for you will be baffled for you will try to explain both, either, to the family for there will be laying on of hands and the letting go for love is what death would intend if it had the choice for the fever will drop, the bone remold along its lines of force the speech return the mind remember itself for there will be days of joy for there will be elevators of elevation and you will walk triumphantly in purest joy along the halls of the hospital and say Yes to all the dark corners where no one is listening for the heart will lead for the head will explain but the final common pathway is the heart whatever kingdom may come for what matters in life is how the human spirit is spent for this is the day of joy for this is the morning to rejoice for this is the beginning Therefore, let us rejoice Gaudeamus igitur.

dinner which remains a source of continued financial support for the medical school even today. In his honor, Loyola became the Stritch School of Medicine.

With new-found funds and Cardinal Stritch's encouragement, Loyola began plans for the construction of a new medical center. Several sites were considered before the University decided on one in Maywood--adjacent to the Hines Veterans Administration Hospital. Official construction began in 1965. By 1969, the new medical school was in operation. In honor of a generous benefactor, the new teaching hospital was named the Foster G. McGaw Hospital of Loyola University.

As the demand for medical care grows, Loyola grows as well...Mulcahy Outpatient Center saw its first patients in 1981...in 1986, Russo Surgical Pavilion was added to the complex...the Cardinal Bernadin Cancer Center opened in 1994...Stritch moved into its state of the art Medical Education building in 1997...the Center for Health and Fitness welcomed visitors that same year.

The never-ending growth and improvement of the Loyola University Medical Center continues to make real the vision of Samuel Cardinal Stritch and all those who share his dream.

Loyola University Chicago was founded in 1870 and moved from Chicago's west side to what is now the Lake Shore Campus in 1909. Recognizing a need for a strong medical school, Loyola affiliated with Illinois Medical College in 1909 and with Bennet and Reliance Medical Colleges the following year. In 1915, control of this loose organization was passed to the University trustees and became the Loyola University School of Medicine.

In 1917, with the purchase of the Chicago College of Medicine and Surgery building on South Wolcott Avenue--across the street from Cook County--the medical school found a home. Loyola's efforts to improve its facilities were limited by a lack of funds until the 1940's when Samuel Cardinal Stritch lent his name to an annual fund raising

Near the turn of the century, our mother institution was founded as an "eclectic" school—one of the irregular sects practicing medicine. The eclectic dogma denied therapy of bleeding, purgery, and emetics, which had been the main tools of the "regular" physicians in the not too distant past. The eclectic motto was: "Prove all things, and hold fast to that which is good." Amidst all of the growth and change, our foundation, no doubt, remains the same.

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both And be one traveler, long I stood And looked down one as far as I could To where it bent in the undergrowth...

I shall be telling this with a sigh

Two roads diverged in a wood, and I-I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

The only pictures that I have of our years in medical school are in my head. Since I am not an illustrator and there is no machine that can extract pictures from a person's brain, I am left with the one alternative that makes sense to me. I thought that I would share one of my favorite poetic works with you and a little something that reminds me of what it's all about. I believe that we've all changed our perception of people and the world since beginning medical school and that we've each found a different meaning for ourselves. We have seen and experienced a great deal of what being human truly means. I think that these events have not only made us good physicians, but I think that they have made us better people as well. I wish you all prosperity and health.

The Stolen Child

*(Where dips the rocky highland Of Sleuth Wood in the lake,
There lies a leafy island (Where plapping herons wake
The drowsy water rats
There we've hid our faery vats, Full of berries,
And of reddest stolen cherries.
Come away, O human child!
To the waters and the wild
(With a faery, hand in hand,
For the world's more full of weeping than you can understand.*

*(Where the wave of moonlight glosses
The dim grey sands with light, Far off, by furthest Rosses (We foot it all the night, (Leaving olden dances, (Dangling hands and mingling glances Till the moon has taken flight;
To and fro we leap
And chase the frothy bubbles, (While the world is full of troubles And anxious in its sleep.
Come away, O human child!
To the waters and the wild
(With a faery, hand in hand,
For the world's more full of weeping than you can understand.*

*(Where the wandering water gushes From the hills above Glen-Car, In pools among the rushes That scarce could bathe a star, (We seek for slumbering trout And whispering in their ears Give them unquiet dreams;
Leaning softly out From ferns that drop their tears
Over the young streams.
Come away, O human child!
To the waters and the wild
(With a faery, hand in hand,
For the world's more full of weeping than you can understand.*

*Away with us he's going,
The solemn-eyed:
He'll hear no more the lowing
Of the calves on the warm hillside Or the keel on the ho Sing peace into his breast;
Or see the brown mice do Round and round the oatmeal-chest.
For he comes, the human child,
To the waters and the wild
(With a faery, hand in hand,
From a world more full of weeping than he can understand.*

THE ESSENCE OF PASSION

Passion is powerful...

Nothing was ever achieved without it, and nothing can take its place.

No matter what you face in life, if your passion is great enough, you will find the strength to succeed.

Without passion, life has no meaning.

So put your heart, mind & soul into even your smallest acts...

This is the essence of passion.

This is the secret to life.

Fish Dance

Stritch started a new tradition during our 2nd year--a winter formal. It gave us all a break from the winter doldrums and allowed us to actually take advantage of one of Chicago's most popular attractions--the Shedd Aquarium.

Ok, so we didn't actually dance with the fish but it was still a great opportunity to get dressed up and celebrate together.

St. Luke's Day

In honor of the patron Saint of Medicine, St. Luke, Stritch celebrates the annual St. Luke's Day on the 3rd Thursday of October. We all look forward to that day since, of course, it is a school holiday. No lectures, no ward service, no call. Mass in the morning is followed by lunch and poster presentations of research projects by 2nd year students. But the day is most notable for the Dinner and Dance at the Carlisle of Oakbrook. Here students and faculty enjoy cocktails, dinner, and an awards presentation and then end the evening by letting loose on the dance floor. By the end of the night, we are all left wondering why they don't give us the day off after St. Luke's Day.

Playing Doctor in Paradise

The St. Lucia Externship

For those 4th years lucky enough to go, St. Lucia offered Loyola students the opportunity to play doctor in paradise. Loyola's affiliation with St. Jude's hospital began in 1984 and each year roughly 24 fourth years make the journey to the island nation in the Southern Caribbean. At first, most of us were in culture shock--high humidity, boiling all water, plantains, pumpkin soup, and goat meat at every meal. However, after we became accustomed to "St. Lucia Time," we learned to love the place. We ate pizza at Il Pirata, drank Pitons at Sandy Beach, snorkeled at Anse Chastenet, watched the sunset at the lighthouse, shopped in Castries, gorged ourselves at Ladera, danced to Soca Frenzy, and enjoyed relaxing around the compound with the many other volunteers from all over the world. Of course, St. Lucia wasn't all fun and games. Q4 call in the ER treating vomiting and diarrhea (St. Lucia standard), asthma, sewing up lacs, and scratching our heads over more complicated problems that were difficult to diagnose with the limited resources. We learned to be frugal with labs and Xrays, and thorough in our physical exams. In all, St. Lucia was a rich and rewarding experience in and out of the hospital, providing memories to last a lifetime.

A CARTOON WRITTEN BY A DOCTOR:

When entering a lecture late, one should:

- walk in the front door, pass in front of the professor and sit in the front row
- walk in the back door, stroll down the aisle blocking the projector and climb over ten people to get to that corner seat
- walk in the back door and take a seat in the back of the room quietly without disrupting the entire class

Kristen Stone-Mulhern, M.D.

Congratulations on your graduation and the attainment of your Doctor of Medicine degree. You have always held high goals for yourself, and through tenacity and hard work have managed to reach each one. Your latest, graduation from medical school, is by far your greatest accomplishment and a fitting tribute to your talent.

We are now, as always, very proud of you. We wish you the best during your residency and a long, fulfilling, and prosperous career in Medicine.

All our Love, Mom, Dad, Mark, & Marielle

Or cool one Pain
If I can stop one Heart from breaking I shall not live in vain

Or help one

Unto his nest again I shall not live in Vain.

Tim Noonan Age 12

These years for us have gone by fast
And now you're Doctor Tim at last.
You've always given it your all Whether studying, working or playing ball.
We're proud of all you've done so far But love you most for who you are-A wonderful, caring young man, Doctor Tim

Congratulations! Love, Dad and Mom

To our dear David, We admire your gentle and friendly nature
 Your zest for fun and adventure And yet, inside you have that will to succeed
 To excel, to share, to give and to lead Praised by folks across land and sea Yes, the reasons are plain to see Now that you have added more to your laurels
 By becoming a doctor in spite of hardship and perils
 Our congratulations and best wishes are in order
 You are as precious to us as your brother For being who you are and what you can be As parents our hearts are full, our pride replete

Congratulations, Megan!

We are very proud of you and wish you Good Luck

your patience and good humor. And of course, thank you to our advisor, Dean Michael Lambesis, for your dedication to this book and your remarkable eye for screening the "inappropriate" photos (i.e. Babka and Cahill). Who knows what would have slipped by without you! Many thanks to Diane Lona-Roundtree in the computer lab. Without you, our computer illiteracy would have gotten us nowhere. Another thanks to Medical Photography for many of the faculty and campus photos, and to Wycoff Studios for the senior portraits. Finally, we wish to thank the Class of 1999 for the four years of memories which fill this book. Years from now, when we are all scattered throughout the country, we hope that you will use this book to look back and remember fondly all the experiences and friendships from Loyola-Stritch.

Best of Luck to All--

Julie, Brian, Frank, Amy, Sharyl, Bill, Dave, Beth, and Marie

Well, here it is! The 1999 Caduseus is the product of many hours of designing layouts, staring at computer screens, and frantically cropping photos to meet the deadlines. We appreciate the participation by the majority of our class members in this project--we're sure you were all happy to see the end of the badgering in hallways and evening phone calls from us asking you for your pictures and signatures. We would like to extend a special thanks to those who made this book possible. First, to the Office of Campus Life--thank you Phyllis and Toni for
